M'ANDREW ENEMY OF 'PULL'

INSURGENTS IN SADDLE; BREAK SENATE TIEUP

Elect Democratic L.C.C. Chairman.

ROBERT M.
LA FOLLETTE.

The committee is now free to begin functioning. It will give its attention at once to the question of repealing or radically amending the Cummins-Esh railroad law.

Some for Outright Repeal.

Some of the members of the committee favor the outright repeal of the law and others think the repeal of some sections, particularly 15-A, the so-called earning clause, would suffice to meet the situation. Indications are that the committee will report some kind of railroad legislation and that the "regular" Republican leaders will have considerable difficulty in keeping it shelved during the session.

Thirty-two ballots were required to bring about the election of Senator Smith. On the decisive ballot the vote stood: Smith, 39; Cummins, 29, and Senator Coopers (Rep., Mich.), 6. The presiding officer announced that thirty-eight votes constituted a majority and that Senator Smith therefore was elected. The South Carolina senator was showered with congratulations.

Change Comes Unexpectedly.

The balloting today started off with no indication of the impending break. The regulars stood firm, and the insurgents continued to throw their support to Senator Coopers. Two more futile ballots were taken. Then the leaders asked for a truce.

Senator La Follette (Rep., Wis.) advised his insurgent colleagues to throw their support to Senator Smith. He pointed out the futility of further efforts to elect a Progressive Republican and declared that the only solution was the election of a Democrat. The votes were soon over and the balloting began again.

The Final Ballot.

Of the insurgent group Senator La Follette, Senator Brookhart (Rep., Ia.), Senator Ladd (Rep., N. D.) and Senator Frazer (Rep., N. J.) went over to the Democrats with Senator Shepard (F., La., Minn.) and Senator Shipstead (F., La., Minn.).

The six senators who continued to vote for Senator Coopers were Capper (Rep., Kas.), Howell (Rep., Neb.), Norris (Rep., Neb.), Gooding (Rep., Idaho), Norbeck (Rep., S. D.), and Jones (Rep., Wash.). Only one Democratic senator, Bruce (Dem., Md.), was off the reservation. He voted for Senator Cummins.

The question is now raised whether Senator Cummins is even a member of the interstate commerce committee. Senator Lodge (Rep., Mass.), the Republican leader, says he is, and Senator Norris says he is not. This point probably will have to be decided by a committee of the senate tomorrow.

Senator Smith is not lacking in experience as chairman of the committee. He headed it for a short time prior to the Republicans taking control of the senate in 1919. Although he is not considered a radical, he fought the Cummins-Esh law when it was before the senate.

MODERATE COLD WAVE, RAIN, SNOW DUE HERE TODAY

A cold wave which the weather bureau describes as "moderate" is bound for Chicago. It is predicted that there will be rain, turning to snow some time today, and that the thermometer will begin to drop this afternoon. Yesterday's high temperature was 45 degrees at 3 p.m.

By Friday morning, it should be as low as 15 degrees, possibly down to 10 in the western suburbs," said Forester C. A. Donnel. "Only the fact that the weather now is so mild will make the cold wave noticeable."

Moderate

standing Mayor Mitchel's support of John Dwyer.

Again in 1922, when Mr. McAndrew was up for reelection as associate superintendent, he was not in the good graces of Mayor Ryan, yet he retained his place. Neither Mayor Mitchel nor Mayor Ryan registered any definite charges against McAndrew, but there was general displeasure among the politicians over McAndrew's refusal to hark to the plot of politics in the schools.

President of New Haven.

Regarding his policies as superintendent of the Chicago schools, Mr. McAndrew preferred to let the future be judged by his past. He admitted that he had favored the Gary system in the past; but declined to say whether he would attempt to apply its principles to his Chicago work.

"The double platoon system and all that come under the Gary system," he said in reply to questions. "I have my own ideas on these subjects, but I have not had time to sit down and discuss any plans until I have formulated definite recommendations to lay officially before the Chicago board of education."

Mr. McAndrew would not discuss his achievements. He did express his pleasure over his election to the Chicago superintendency. "I am proud of the honor given me," he said, "but I shall do my utmost for the Chicago schools."

He added that he had obtained the appointment "without any particular backing," but on his merits, and hoped to be judged in the future "on his merits."

Views on Gary System.

Going back to his published comment on the Gary system, his ideas are found to embrace this statement:

"The Gary or duplicate school system has made good not only in New York City but in other cities. Of course, there is opposition. It would not be worth much if there wasn't. But the great thing about this system is that it is humanizing and constructive."

"It's nonsense talking as if reading, writing, arithmetic, and grammar were the sum total of life's education. There are other ways of learning, learned and better ways of learning them than the patchy way we had of an hour a week in the workroom or a little bit; now and then of something that should come into the life of the child every school day."

"The change from room to room and from session, far from demoralizing the children, promotes a healthy circulation and a variety of interests. It keeps them active."

Leader in School Advances.

And Dr. McAndrew has been practicing this doctrine of "keeping things alive."

As the initiator and organizer of Washington Irving's High School, a technical school for girls—he has made a record of national import. He took a personal hand in drafting plans for the school building and saw that it was adapted to the teaching of all technical courses for girls, including commerce, art, and domestic science. It was his work as head of this school that led to his election in 1914 as associate superintendent. It was a natural step, therefore, that his views on what a superintendent should place him in charge of all "extension activities," including evening schools, community centers, and physical culture. In all of these newer branches of education he has been a leader and organizer.

Praised by New York Chief.

In this connection Dr. McAndrew was paid a high tribute by Dr. William Ettinger, superintendent of the New York schools.

"Dr. McAndrew," said Dr. Ettinger, "is a wonderful organizer. He is a hard worker, efficient and dependable at all times. His work at Washington Irving Technical school for me stamped him as a great educator, and it was my pleasure to place him as associate superintendent in charge of all extension activities, in which work he continued his notable record. I shall be sorry to lose him from my staff, but shall be glad to see him make a fine record in Chicago."

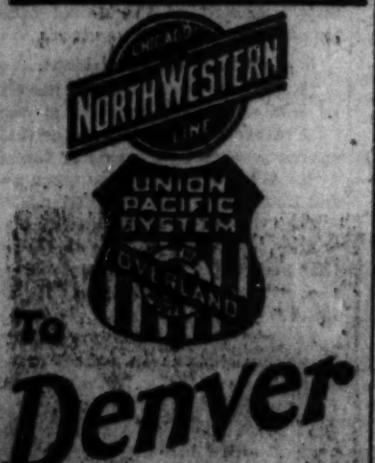

SCHOOL BOARD STANDS PAT ON FIRING OF KLEIN

The board of education yesterday ratified its action of Dec. 12 in dismissing Allen M. Klein, assistant director at the schools, and Ruby M. Klein, his wife, and the resolution was approved and the terms of employment are hereby terminated.

"Now, therefore be it resolved, that the recommendation of the superintendent, providing for the termination of the employment of the said Allen M. Klein and Ruby M. Klein, be and the same hereby is approved and the terms of employment are hereby terminated: and,

"Be it further resolved, that this board does hereby fully confirm and ratify in all respects its action of Dec. 12."

Meanwhile, Judge Michael L. McKinley is considering the evidence in connection with Klein's dismissal and is expected to give his decision on Saturday.

SMALL CHEATS GALLONS OF ONE MORE MURDERER

Grants Krauser Reprieve; Sheriff Wroth.

Walter Krauser, condemned to die in the gallows tomorrow morning, was granted a reprieve until April 25 by Gov. Small yesterday. When Sheriff W. M. Hoffman, who had placed Krauser in the "death cell," was informed of the stay he complained that as a result of the governor's freely given reprieves—in addition to three recent writs—he has seven murderers condemned to hang, but not one to hang.

For months the county jail, which is without sufficient beds to accommodate all prisoners, has housed the seven condemned murderers, one of whom is Mrs. Sabella Nitti. Time and again, as their stay hour approached, Gov. Small granted stays of execution pending further pleas to the courts.

Sheriff Condemns Action.

"I am opposed to the idea of one man having the power to halt an execution," Sheriff Hoffman declared. "Twelve men in each of these seven cases have found the defendants guilty of brutal murder and condemned each accused to death. The courage of these juries in upholding the law should not be mocked by sentimental people who play at justice."

"The courts of the state function, and the law grants every man a most reasonable chance for his life—much more reasonable a chance than was given the victims of these murderers. Interference should be condemned. It doesn't look as if any of the seven persons are to go to the gallows soon."

Krauser was sentenced for his part in the killing of Policeman Ralph Souders just before Christmas, 1922, while the other six gunmen, all originally Krauser's, were granted reprieves. Originally Krauser was found guilty to murder, but when his partner in crime, Bernard Gait, was found guilty and sentenced to death, Krauser amended his plea to not guilty. A jury dealt him the death penalty.

Gov. Stays Executions.

Small has granted stays of execution to both men. Both cases will be heard in the State Supreme court.

Similar stays were granted by Small to Mrs. Nitti and her boyish husband, Peter Crudella. While Mrs. Nitti held the head of her first husband, Frank Nitti, Crudella crushed his skull with a hammer, according to evidence which caused a jury to sentence both to death.

The three others granted reprieves were by the Illinois Supreme court to Lee Hoffmann and William Cramer, convicted killers of Joseph Lanus, and John Melsner, sentenced to hang for the murder of George Schlessinger, a taxi driver.

One Sentence Commuted.

Another case in which Gov. Small interferred was that of James "Jimmy" Smith, slayer of Frank O'Connell, crooked cigar clerk, whose sentence of death was changed to life imprisonment by Small. Smith, a former official of the electrical workers' union, pleaded guilty and was sentenced to death by Judge Marcus Kavanagh.

5 DIE, I HURT IN BROOKLYN FIRE

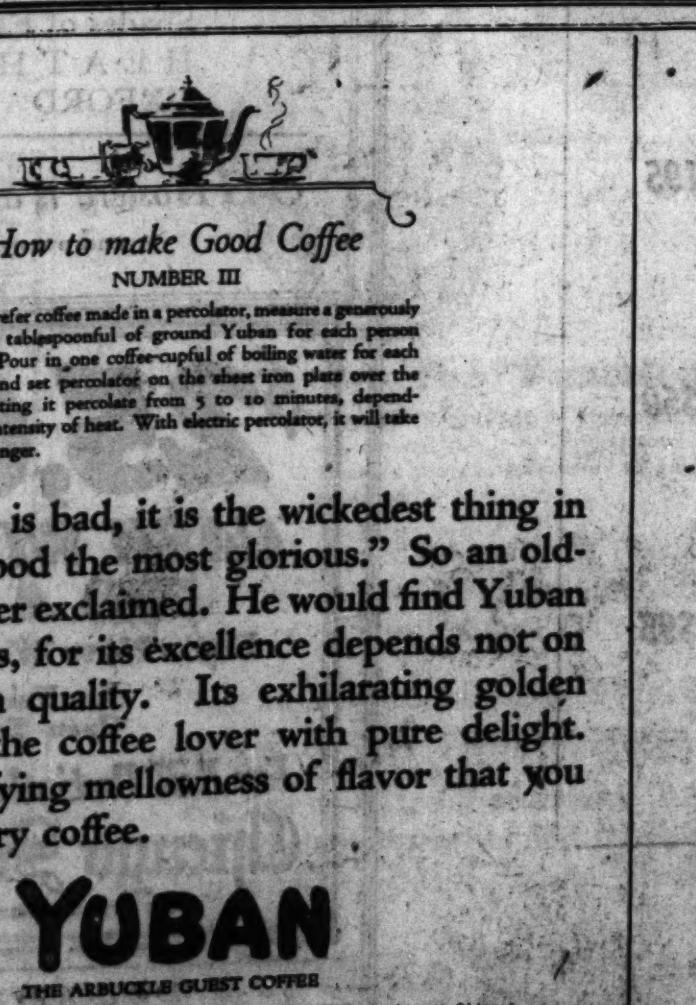

New York, Jan. 9.—Two women and three children, all members of the same family, were killed in a fire that swept through a three-story apartment house here today.

The dead are Mrs. Mary Estler, 48; her 5 year old son, Steven; her daughter, Mary, 28; and two granddaughters, Harold, 8, and Catherine, 12, children of Mary and George Estler Jr.

Eastman Kodak Will Pay "Wage Dividend" to Men

Rochester, N. Y., Jan. 9.—A "wage dividend," payable to employees and amounting to $2,400,000, was voted to-day at a meeting here to the directors of the Eastman Kodak company. The dividend, payable July 1, amounts to $333 for each thousand dollars of the employee's wage covering a period of five years up to Jan. 1, 1924. That is, the employee's wage average for the five year period was $40 a week and who was employed by the company continuously during that time will receive a dividend of $351.

YUKON WILL DANCE, BUT NEW YORK WILL PAY THE FIDDLER

Dawson, Y. T., Jan. 9.—Residents of the Yukon will dance this winter to music played by the best orchestra from New York to San Francisco through the medium of the radio telephone.

Now that the period of the shortest daylight is reached, radio fans are getting perfect results from their instruments and the radio dance promises to become the rage in many a small settlement along the "great green stone" of the Yukon river.

SMALL LAWYERS LOSE LEGAL FIGHT TO FREE ZEIDLER

Attorneys for Gus Zeidler, gunman chief for Gov. Small at his Springfield mansion, made desperate efforts yesterday before Judge Joseph B. David to free Zeidler from the Madison county jail, but he was lodged after conviction several weeks ago on a charge of assault to kill.

Judge David refused to issue a writ of habeas corpus and censured Zeidler's attorneys, William S. McNamara and Richard E. Westbrook, for injecting political into the hearing. Westbrook, a colored lawyer and former assistant state's attorney, was discharged recently by State's Attorney Crows when it was charged he aided in "fixing" a case.

FANATICS RUN AMUCK; SLAY 19 IN PHILIPPINES

(Chicago Tribune Foreign News Service) MANILA, Jan. 10.—Two thousand Colorums, members of a fanatical religious sect, have been massacred here. They have already killed nineteen men and abducted two school teachers. Governor General Leonard Wood is rushing 100 constabulary from Manila to the trouble zone tonight.

Reports state that five members of the constabulary and one municipal policeman were slain, on Jan. 8 Capt. Juan, Lieut. Guillermo, and eleven men were killed. One sergeant and three soldiers escaped in a launch.

How to make Good Coffee NUMBER III

If you prefer coffee made in a percolator, measure a generously rounded tablespoonful of ground Yuban for each person served. Pour in one coffee-cupful of boiling water for each person and set percolator on the silex iron plate over the heat, letting it percolate from 5 to 10 minutes, depending on intensity of heat. With electric percolator, it will take a little longer.

"When coffee is bad, it is the wickedest thing in town; when good the most glorious." So an old-time coffee lover exclaimed. He would find Yuban always glorious, for its excellence depends not on chance but on quality. Its exhilarating golden draught fills the coffee lover with pure delight. It has a satisfying mellowness of flavor that you miss in ordinary coffee.

CHEMIST SUICIDE WHEN LOVE FAILS; GIRL COLLAPSES

She Denies Affair Had Grown Serious.

Despondency over a love affair is believed to have been the cause of Glenn Hursen, 26 years old, a chemist employed by the Franco-Hygienic company, 125 East 18th street, committing suicide by shooting yesterday when near the engine house in the Forest Home cemetery, Forest Park.

According to H. H. Hursen, an uncle, who identified the body, and with whom young Hursen lived, his nephew disappeared on New Year's day from their home at 206 North Lorrel avenue.

The uncle also stated that Hursen had been in love with Genevieve Fyse, 21 years old, 5410 Augusta street, cashier in the wholesale sheet music department of Lyon & Healy.

Girl Pays Tribute.

Miss Fyse collapsed when notified of the death of Hursen and was removed to her home. She denied she knew any reason for Hursen's act and declared that their relationship had been friendly and serious, though "had been a beautiful association, free from quarrels and disagreements." Miss Fyse said that she met Hursen last September and since that time they had been together constantly.

"He was a splendid man, and there is no reason I know of that would have caused him to commit suicide," she said.

Neither the uncle nor Donald N. Clark, superintendent of the Franco-Hygienic company, could give the police any theory for a motive for the suicide other than his love affairs.

Inquest Set for Today.

The uncle said that Hursen had been an orphan. His parents, brother and sister were all buried in Forest Home cemetery. The father died twenty years ago, his brother and sister five years ago and his mother four years ago.

A 38 caliber revolver was found near the body. An inquest will be held today in Blatter's morgue, 7319 Madison street, Forest Park.

Fun for Children

Cross-gartered, smiling Marlowe, and the masquerading Viola, Sir Toby and Sir Andrew, and the Clown played their parts for 1,309 Chicago school children who packed the Great Northern theater yesterday. They were the guests of Miss Julia Marlowe and E. H. Sothern at a matinee performance of "Twelfth Night."

The girls shone with glee at the same elastic buffoonery that used to delight the Old Globe and burst with delighted amazement when Viola and Sebastian, long separated sister and brother, found each other at last. Miss Marlowe, in doublet and hose, was a heroine to tell their families about when she got home. Mr. Sothern, gray wig disordered by his stay in prison, caused little girls to giggle and boys to shout.

From the Burroughs school, as a token of appreciation to Miss Marlowe, came a basket of flowers, presented by Mildred Reinsch.

Realtor Lacks License from State, Is Charged

A warning for the attorney, Frank S. Oliver, solicitor, who at one time was head of the Chicago Real Estate board, has been issued on a charge of operating without a state license.

The warning was issued by Inspector James O. Haley of the state department of registration and education. Mr. Oliver declared he already had made application for a license.

Dependable

Some of us are impressed unduly by the meteoric and spectacular, yet it is noteworthy that no mariner would attempt to guide his course by a comet.

Instead he chooses the North Star: because it is always there, because it always indicates unerringly the one same direction, because it is dependable.

And dependability is a quality as rare as it is simple and inconspicuous.

Since 1886 Almer Coe & Company have been depended upon by those who wear glasses, to supply glasses at moderate prices that are durable, that have style and give comfort to all who wear them.

And Almer Coe & Company have been found—dependable.

Almer Coe Glasses are instruments of precision, and the safety of your eyesight depends upon the skill and efficiency of those who design and make your glasses.

Always the best in quality, but never higher in price.

MURPHY TO GIVE WIFE A DIVORCE AND $446,000

Both Agree to Drop the Immorality Charges.

BY GENEVIEVE FORBES

Mrs. Meta Murphy will be granted a divorce, on grounds of cruelty, from

James H. "Rolls-Royce" Murphy and will receive a divorce settlement of $446,000 in stocks, bonds, furs and diamonds, plus a $225 monthly alimony as long as she does not remarry. Judge Joseph H. Sabath indicated yesterday.

In return, Mrs. Murphy waived all claims of infidelity against her husband and took the stand to tell of his alleged cruelties.

This morning, in conformance with the law, which requires two witnesses to establish the principal's charges in an divorce case, two witnesses for Mrs. Murphy will testify to the number of times the former street car conductor struck, hit and choked his wife. Murphy will not contest the evidence, and Judge Sabath will grant the divorce, he indicated.

There was another wrangle. Judge Sabath reminded her that she had received more than $250,000 and ought not to be disturbed by the loss of half of that sum.

Murphy, summoned to the bench, reminded the court that he had "raised the ante" of his wife's attorney's fees, and refused to consider any back alimony.

Murphy was persuaded by Attorney Epstein to waive the $700, and every part of it.

Murphy in Playing Mood.

"Poor woman!" counseled Murphy, as he left the courtroom. "She's got all that money and she won't know how to keep it. Do you know, I really feel sorry for her.

"But I feel sorry for myself, too."

Mrs. Murphy, in the witness chair, told Judge Sabath that she was "satisfied" with each of the following terms of the settlement.

Releases Dower Right.

Mrs. Murphy was instructed that she was to release her dower right in her husband's estate and that she was to receive $225 monthly alimony as long as she did not remarry. "Remember, you can't come back to the court,"

he said.

The communication requesting com-

Mr. Wilson at his home. Later a dicti-authorized by the former President.

our figures to all the raids, has been operating under special federal deputation for each individual raid. His special commission was authorized, it is claimed, by Armitage and Gus Simons, chief prohibition agent for the Pittsburgh district, on orders coming directly from Roy Haynes, United States prohibition commissioner at Washington. In a statement last night Haynes denied he had authorized Young to serve as prohibition officer. Young had a spectacular career. The number of men he has killed is a matter of dispute. Most of them are matters of public record in the Blue Ridge mountains and the hills of North Carolina, Virginia, Kentucky, and Tennessee. Young himself refuses to number his killings. His attorney, O. A. Bowell, claims that the man and candidate for the Republican nomination for state's attorney, places the number at twenty-nine.

Local Officers Ignored.

All the Williamson county raids since Young has been here have been made independent not only of Sheriff Galligan but of the regular federal authorities in Illinois. This has only made the situation more intense.

Leaders of the cleanup movement frankly declare that it began with a determined effort to "get Galligan." The sheriff was accused of being derelict in his duty. He was charged with receiving protection money from bootleggers and keepers of vice and gambling houses.

Accusations almost as serious were made against State's Attorney Daley Duty, who prosecuted the Herrin massacre case here last year. Mr. Duty, whose political enemies even admit is in bad health, is said to be in Cuba.

Went to Washington.

After Young spent several weeks in investigation, he, accompanied by a committee, which included Mr. Bowell, went to Washington to see Commissioner Haynes. As a result of this visit, Simons was sent here, it is said, to conduct the raids of Dec. 22. Since then Armitage has been the senior commander of the raiders, who have numbered between 500 and 600 specially deputized citizens. Young and J. F. Leffler, another federal prohibition agent, have helped him.

United States District Attorney W. O. Potter, who resides in Marion, says he was never consulted about any of the raids. Neither was United States Marshal James A. White and Maj. Percy Owen, federal prohibition commissioners here, and their chief agent, Charles Venable, were in ignorance of the operations.

"I never recognized Young because he was not a federal officer," Mr. Potter declared today. "Furthermore, I don't think it is the province of federal officers to line up with local factions."

Book Troops' Removal.

No sooner had the troops arrived than there was a concentrated effort on the part of Young and his backers to get rid of the federal agents. Henderson Clarris, head of police, William Boyd, Minister, leading klan men, and other citizens voiced their resentment against the sheriff's action at a mass meeting this morning. They expressed their loyalty to Young and declared that Marion is free of bootlegging, vice, gambling, and other law-breaking at any time in its history. Most of the credit for cleaning the city was given to the mayor and his police.

During the raids, which have been held sporadically since Dec. 22, two houses have been burned by fires of mysterious origin. One was the home of Sam Durant, the other a resort operated by Charlie Baker.

Answering charges that his office has not been in sympathy with law enforcement, Sheriff Galligan issued the following statement:

"It has been called to my attention that a number of our citizens have made the statement that we do not

BONUS BACKERS BEGIN TO FEAR DELAY OF BILL

Longworth to Insist Action on Tax Reduction.

(By A. STAFF CORRESPONDENT.)

Washington, D. C., Jan. 9.—[Special.]—Approval of both tax reduction and the soldiers' bonus without specific instructions as to precedence appeared tonight to be a possible outcome of the controversial bill scheduled for a climax in a conference of all house Republicans to-morrow night.

Ex-service members of the house, who forced the calling of the conference with a view to the adoption of a resolution instructing the ways and means committee to report out a bonus bill not later than Jan. 21, admitted doubt today as to their ability to put through such a resolution. Majority Leader, Longworth [Rep., Cal.], who has been making good his claim that a majority of the house Republicans would be rounded up in opposition to the resolution, giving the ways and means committee instructions as to the bonus.

New Move if Defeated.

If defeated on the bonus the ex-service members plan to bring forward a substitute of the proposal of Representative Longworth, who has announced his intention to move that the ways and means committee be instructed to report out the tax bill ahead of all other legislation. This substitute as outlined by Representative

Longworth is to be the sense of the conference that a bonus bill should be passed at this session and that it is incompatible with tax reduction. Representative Fish said he intended to offer this proposal as a substitute for the Longworth motion, which in turn would be presented as a substitute for the original bonus motion.

The opinion seemed to be that something on the order of 100,000 veterans might be won over to the sense of the conference that a bonus bill should be passed at this session and that it is incompatible with tax reduction. Representative Fish said he intended to offer this proposal as a substitute for the Longworth motion, which in turn would be presented as a substitute for the original bonus motion.

Would Change Mellon Plan.

The resolution probably will be worded as not to imply the literal acceptance of all features of the Mellon plan, such as the reduction of surtax rates to a point as low as advocated by Secretary Mellon.

Representative Green [Rep., Ia.], chairman of the ways and means committee, said today that if the committee concurred in the sense of the tax bill without taking up the bonus at this time he was arranging the fuses the wife ran to a window and shrieked for aid.

CADET HURT IN FALL OF PLANE.

San Antonio, Tex., Jan. 9.—Cadet S. Winter Wilmoth of Brooklyn, N. Y., was injured today when the plane in which he was flying crashed near Salado creek, east of Fort Sam Houston. His address is 707 Mount Vernon place, Washington, D. C.

Simmons Opens Attack.

The attack on the Mellon bill was begun by Senator Simmons [Dem., N. J.], ranking member of the senate finance committee. He declared that when the tax bill reaches the senate the Democrats will tear it to pieces and that they do not propose to be stampeded by propaganda in its favor.

Senator Ashurst [Dem., Ariz.] also participated in the attack and brought in the names of Secretary Mellon and others as those who would be benefited under the bill.

"There is the most insidious and alluring propaganda for this bill that I have ever seen since I have been in public life," Senator Ashurst said. "It will become a man like Secretary Mellon to conduct such a furious propaganda for a measure when it means $500,000 to his own pocket."

Senator Conard [Dem., N. Y.] furnished the $500,000 figure as the amount which he said he had been informed would be saved by Secretary Mellon in his own tax bill.

In reply to a question from Senator Ashurst, the New York senator said that Henry Ford would save more than Secretary Mellon.

Indiana Senator to Decide Today.

Washington, D. C., Jan. 9.—[Special.]—Another Republican favorite son is about to hitch to the Coolidge band wagon.

Senator James E. Watson [Rep., Ind.], who has long cherished presidential aspirations, it was practically assured tonight, has prepared himself for the supreme political sacrifice for the good of the grand old party.

In fact, it is unofficially reported that the Indiana senator already has pledged his support to President Coolidge in the coming campaign particularly the primary fight to be waged in Indiana against the forces of Senator Hiram Johnson [Rep., Cal.], who is understood to be a strong candidate for the White House conference late to-day.

"Unless the soldiers discontinue their threats and demands and lobbying," Graham said, "they are going to lose many of their present friends in congress."

SAYS LOBBYING BY LEGION HURTS BONUS' CHANCES

Washington, D. C., Jan. 9.—[Special.]—The truce in the house over the question of liberalizing the rules is near an end and bitter fighting is the prospect for next week.

The regular committee has been holding daily sessions trying to work out a revision of the rules that will satisfy insurgent Republicans and Democrats. Indications today were that they would not succeed and that the issue

OBREGON BEGINS ADVANCE ALONG PUEBLA FRONT

Rebels Fall Back; Lose Oil Field Towns.

Mexico City, Jan. 9, via Laredo. [By the Associated Press.]—A rebel advance on the Puebla front started this morning from all sectors of the vanguard commanded by Gens. Andres Almazan and Fausto Topete. The rebels are withdrawing.

An advance on the Guadalajara front is expected momentarily. President Obregon is now at the front. Francisco Serrano, Obregon's secretary of war, advised that all measures are being taken to insure a victory. Gens. Gonzalo Escobar and Manuel Lopez are commanding the vanguard.

Federals Take Puerto Lobo.
Tampico, Mexico, Jan. 9. [By the Associated Press.]—The advance guard of the government forces under Gen. Luis Gutiérrez in the drive toward Tampico, crossed the Rio Tula, where the rebels were commanded by Ramon Black, former administrator of customs. Government forces also occupied Palo Blanco, an important oil center where terminals of the American Gulf and West Indies, Texas Oil, and Meridian Atlantic companies are located. The rebels retreated from this place upon the approach of a federal column comprising more than 4,000 troops.

Charges Anarchy in Mexico City.
San Antonio, Tex., Jan. 9. [By the Associated Press.]—An era of anarchy exists in Mexico City and the districts of the Mexican people are in the hands of socialists headed by Gasca and Morenos, according to Reinaldo Espanola Martinez, minister of the Mexican house of commons, who arrived in San Antonio late Monday night. Many outlaws have been committed by so-called laborers, Mr. Martinez said. Several foreign factories have been seized and laborers are riding in the streets in the capital in costly automobiles they have taken from private owners.

The financial crisis which has prevailed in government circles has extended to the army and the federal troops have not received their pay for some time, the deputy said. This is said to have had a demoralizing effect upon the battle fronts. Desertions are said to be frequent.

Called to Hold Border.
Gen. Elias P. Calles, former candidate for the Mexican presidency, is en route to Piedras Negras, opposite Eagle Pass, Tex., with 500 soldiers according to a dispatch received to-night by the San Antonio Express. He is expected to arrive in Piedras Negras to-night or early Thursday to strengthen the garrison at that place and to hold the border and take charge of operations in the state of Coahuila. His train was reported to have passed San Antonio Tuesday afternoon.

The dispatch confirms the announcement of Consul General Alejandro Lubbert of San Antonio that the battle of Alvarado, in which 1000 federal troops, although the De la Huerta agent here claims the rebels won. The correspondent says the battle continued eight hours, beginning at 10 o'clock Tuesday morning and ending at 6 that night.

BEGIN PAYMENT FOR ARMS.
Washington, D. C., Jan. 9. [Special.]—Secretary of War Weeks received today a check for $150,000 from the Mexican government in part payment for arms and other munitions sold to the Obregon government by the United States. It was announced at the war department today. This sum, it was stated, covers less than half the amount of the total purchases. Closely following on the action to prevent shipments of contraband material to the rebels, it was revealed that the pan-American Federation of Labor has taken vigorous measures to prevent shipment of arms to the Vera Cruz rebels from European countries.

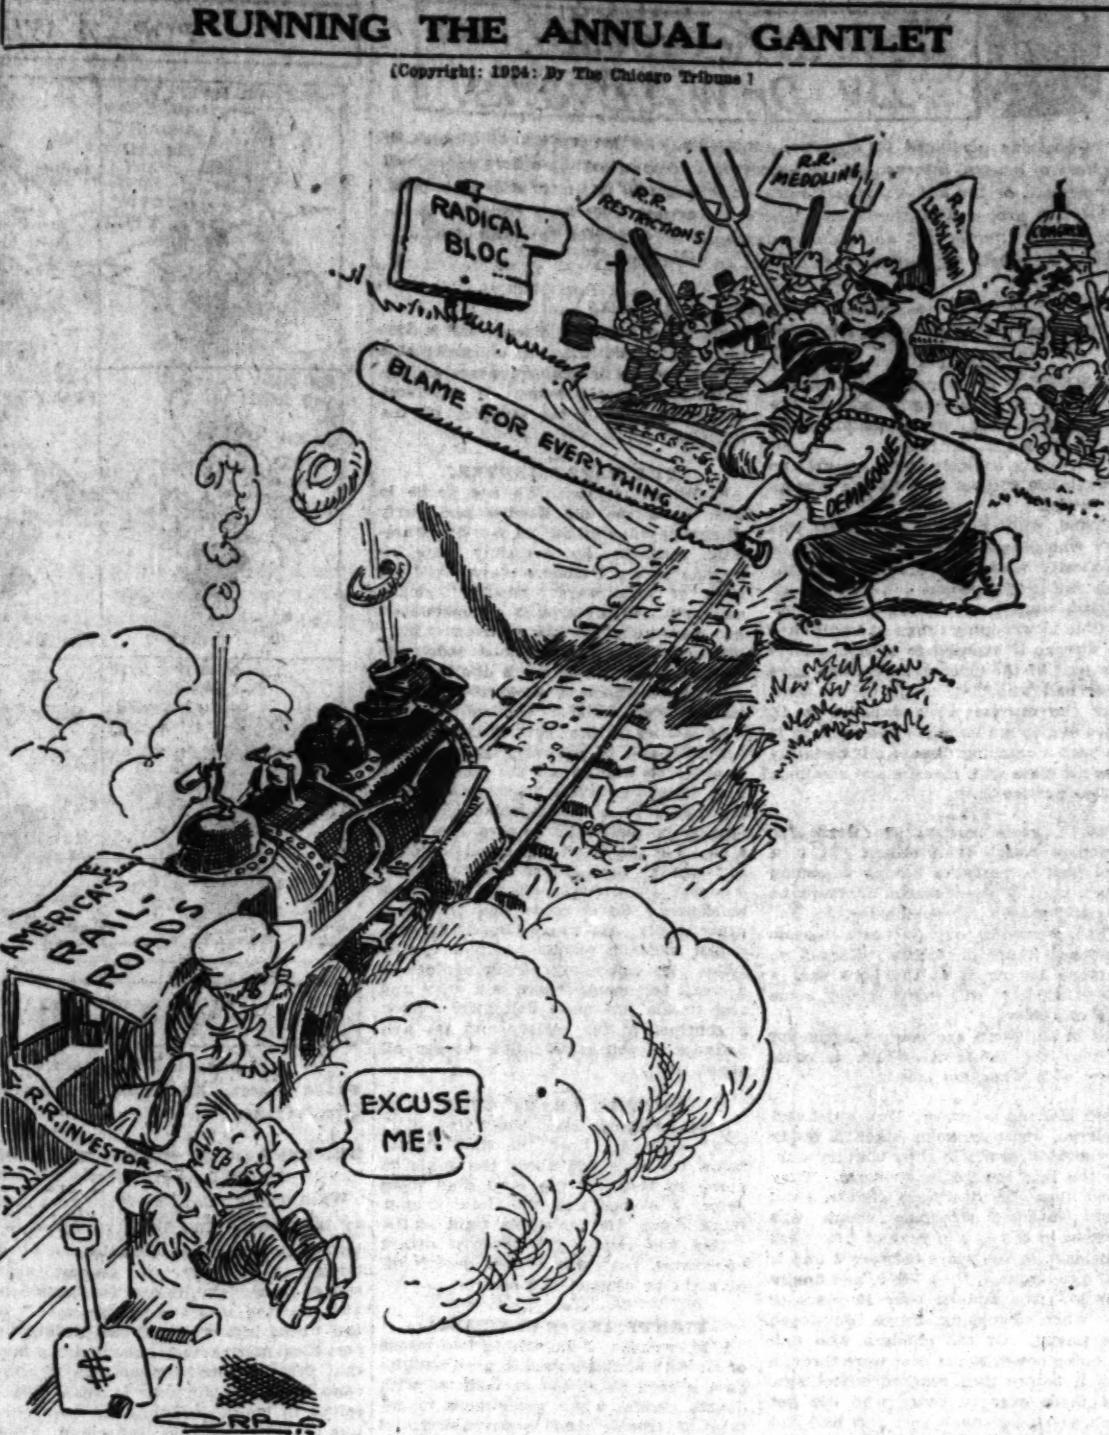

ARREST DOORMAN AT LA SALLE IN TAXICAB WAR

Renewal of the war between Yellow and De Luxe taxicabs for the trade at the Hotel La Salle last night brought about the arrest of Julius Dickholtz, 244 North Kedzie avenue, doorman at the hotel. According to Dickholtz, Lieut. James Killackey asked him why he did not call a Yellow cab instead of a De Luxe for a guest at the hotel. The guest had expressed no preference and Dickholtz informed the lieut. that the De Luxe company had obtained the concession to the hotel. The lieut. then ordered him to call a Yellow cab, Dickholtz said, and when he refused he was taken into custody.

FAVORS ARCADE SIDEWALKS FOR MILWAUKEE AVE.

Improvement of Milwaukee avenue from Grand avenue to Logan square by widening the present sixty-six foot roadway to 100 feet and arcading the sidewalks, all at an approximate cost of $6,000,000 was suggested to the board of local improvements yesterday by its president, John J. Sloan.

The scheme, however, probably is the political solution to the northwest side's acute congestion problem and may be accomplished, he pointed out, by special assessment without bond issue. A similar plan offered for widening of La Salle street was rejected by property owners.

MACDONALD IS RE-ELECTED HEAD OF BRITISH LABOR

Party Fears for Loyalty of Scotch Groups.

BY JOHN STEERLE.

[Chicago Tribune Foreign Service.]

LONDON, Jan. 9.—Hammond Macdonald was reelected president of the Labor party at a full party meeting today and all the other officers were also reelected provisionally. J. R. Clyne remains as deputy leader and Arthur Henderson as chief whip.

The decision of Mr. Macdonald to accept the prime minister's offer of the opportunity to offer was endorsed.

The Scotch group, which is the extremist wing of the Labor party, also met today and elected officers. The proceedings were secret, but after the meeting Chairman Wheatley said that the group would support Mr. Macdonald for the present.

Peved at Lords.

There was a slight scene when the house of commons went to the house of lords this afternoon to announce the election of the speaker. Only half of the 120 members of the house of lords, including the speaker, and Jack Jones, a Socialist member of parliament from Silverton, shouted.

"Fancy the commons being insulted like this by this gang."

On the return to the house of commons Mr. Jones tried to discuss the matter, but the speaker refused to hear him. The swearing in of the members began this afternoon and will continue for the rest of the week.

—Continued.

One committee of three—Flanagan, Norris, and Olander—were delegated to prepare a resolution for presentation to the mayor and the city council, as evidence of good faith on the part of the labor organizations, protesting against shipment of milk into Chicago from outside the fifty mile inspected zone.

Shirt Unchanged.

While the meeting went on there was no change in the situation between the producers and distributors.

Both sides agreed to continue the talks.

The distributors refused to be worried by talk of sympathetic strikes among their employees, even though the union goes through.

On one hand came reports of milk deliveries stopped at Batavia and of indignation meetings held by the farmers at Liberal, Winona, Lake and Round Lake. On the other, messages from Dubuque, Iowa, Detroit and Janesville, Wis., told of thousands of gallons of milk being shipped into Chicago. The supply from Wisconsin is said to be coming from as far north as Rice Lake, with sweet cream shipped from Minneapolis and St. Paul.

MILK PRODUCERS MAY PUSH FIGHT AS LABOR UNION

Likely to Cast Lot with Federation.

Officials of milk producers' associations, which are fighting the Chicago milk dealers, made overtures for the support of organized labor yesterday. Definite plans, bearing the mark of a successful conclusion, were formulated at a meeting between representatives of the associations and members of the executive boards of the Chicago and Illinois Federations of Labor.

The meeting took place in the Federation building at 166 West Washington street.

Organization Expected Soon.

At its conclusion, it was announced by both sides that a union of the producers with the labor organizations might be expected to take place in the near future.

John Flanagan and Edward N. Norris, president and secretary of the Chicago Federation, Michael E. Kelly, member of the executive board, and Victor A. Olander, secretary of the Illinois Federation of Labor, represented the unions. The producers were led by their president, Frank T. Fowler.

RAILROAD EARNINGS AND PUBLIC POLICY.

The much mooted clause of the Esch-Cummins law, mischievously by political railroad baiters a guarantee, has been declared unconstitutional by the Supreme court.

The opinion of Chief Justice Taft ought to be read by every citizen, and especially by farmers who have been inclined to follow the assaults of the so-called progressives upon the Esch-Cummins act. The repeated assertion that the clause requiring the railroads to divide profits above 6 per cent with the government as a guarantee was a characteristic falsehood. The clause is the opposite of a guarantee. The guarantee is in the constitution as applied by the courts. The clause in the act is a recapture clause, nothing more. It provides for giving up earnings, not receiving them.

It is now held not a taking of property without due process and compensation. If it is not repealed by congress, therefore, it will mark an important extension of government control over the railroads. The chief justice's discussion of its intent and expected working should be studied. How it will work will be known only through experience. If the clause is allowed to stand, we may find that it has manifested in a more stable and, taking the country as a whole, a more efficient system of transportation. If this proves to be its effect it will have been justified.

On the other hand, it may have the effect of restricting initiative, checking investment, and sacrificing the development of the all important great trunk systems to the interests of lines the development of which is not so essential to the business of the country as a whole.

We do not hazard a prophecy. If it is successful the country will profit. If not, the country will pay for another mistake in political regulation of private enterprise. There is much to be said in favor of the theory laid down by the chief justice that investment in a business dedicated to a public service should be restricted in returns. The merit of that theory lies in the interpretation and application of the term "fair" or "reasonable" returns. It lies not in law but in policy, and if through the pressure of political considerations this policy actually discourages investment, the propriety of the theory will not protect the services from malnutrition and deterioration—an effect as directly and seriously injurious to the public as to railroad owners.

The recapture clause, if accompanied by a generally constructive policy toward the railroads instead of a policy of multiplying restrictions, may work out satisfactorily to all concerned. It represents a new check upon enterprise, a new extension of the domain of government control, and we believe progress does not generally lie in that direction. On the contrary, there is good reason to fear that by a gradual but persistent increase of governmental—that is, political—control over the functions of transportation, we shall lower their level of efficiency to something like that of the nationalized roads of which Europe is getting so tired. Hardly anything could be worse for farmers, wage earner, or business man than that. Nevertheless, the recapture clause and the Esch-Cummins act as a whole should be given a chance to demonstrate their value, in spite of the dishonest slanders of alleged friends of the people. Only by trying it can we tell whether it is good or bad.

A SENTIMENTAL ERROR.

The state welfare department of Ohio not long ago was moved by humanitarian zeal to decree against any form of corporal punishment at the Girls' Industrial school near Delaware, Ohio. Having done so, it may be presumed, the board sat back, folded its hands over an ample waistcoat, and beamed, in the self-satisfied assurance that love rules all and that all would be well.

But recently more than one hundred girls, inmates of the institution, broke out in a riot which threw the institution into an uproar and allowed several to escape. Gov. Denney was forced to rescind the welfare department's order, restabilish paddling as an approved means of discipline and correction, move twenty-one of the rioters to the Marysville reformatory, and lock the others in their cottages. And there is peace.

There is a thought in that for the silly sentimentalists. These young women and girls were in this school because they had misbehaved. Most of them had misbehaved because they lacked discipline in their homes. They required stern treatment as well as sympathy and understanding. When they were assured by a soft hearted and soft headed governing body that they would be ruled only by reason, and not roughly, they ran amuck.

The whole field of evidence for and against alcoholics has recently been scrutinized and stated by Prof. Ernest H. Starling of University college, London—in conjunction with physicians and pathologists of the highest standing—in his book "The Action of Alcohol on Man." In his preface to this book Prof. Starling says:

"The evidence here presented has convinced me that in a civilized society such as ours the abolition of all alcoholic beverages, from our midst, even if carried out by universal consent, would be a mistake and contrary to the permanent interest of the race."

"That is human nature on both sides. And it is a form of human nature which the authorities in society must recognize and control. Prisoners, whether adolescent or adult, are prisoners because they have done wrong. Sentimentalizing not only does not correct their errors but encourages them to more wrongdoing. They are already a burden upon society. They should not be made more of a burden by even indirectly encouraging liberty to the extent of license. It works out too frequently as it did in Ohio. Chicago recently had an experience of a wholesale 'delivery' from a similar in-

AT AVALON HEIGHTS—SAN DIEGO.

The wind is full of mystery tonight,
As though it had a secret it would keep;
It whispers fitfully, and bids me sleep,
Drowsing my senses with its balmy night.
Now something it relates that hints delight
Unto the palms, for see! their little fronds leap
And dance about; and now the roses resp
A gentle petting, nodding left and right.
The silens falls; and then a mocking-bird,
Somewhere within the garden, lifts his voice
And sings as he were his to Israel.
The secret's out; and lo! the moon has heard;
See where she comes, to revel and rejoice
In Avalon, till morning breaks the spell.

REPORT "HILJACK" JURY SPLIT ON GUILT OF ONE

Debate All Night on Fate of Policeman.

A jury in the United States District court was deliberating last night as to whether Detective Sergeants Edward S. J. Williams, Carlisle, and Edward J. Mitchell, all of Deering street station, are four honest policemen or four "hijackers."

A verdict had not been reached at 3 o'clock this morning. Burmester, after the federal building at that hour were that the jury had reached a decision in the cases of the three sergeants but were divided as to the guilt of Patrolman Mark.

The case, which has dragged along for more than two years, was given to the jury by Judge Adam C. Cliffe at 8:45 o'clock. The trial closed with a stirring appeal by Assistant District Attorney Edward Weis for the jurors to convict these "four higher-ups of the bootleg profession" and with a scathing denunciation of Capt. Michael Galler, former commanding officer at Deering station, now stationed in Burnside.

Plays Police Captain.

Capt. Galler, although implicated in the story of the government's star witness, failed to appear in court to refute the charges against him.

It became apparent to any lawyer that Michael Galler should have been brought in here to refute the testimony given against him. Attorney Weis stated: "In my witness opinion, I cannot imagine a police captain, accused of a crime, not coming to the front to defend himself. Why was Galler afraid to come into court? Why was the defense afraid to bring him into court?"

The four policemen, all of whom have been suspended by Chief of Police Morgan A. Collins, were tried on indictments containing several counts of conspiracy to violate federal prohibition laws. They were accused specifically with having held up three men who were moving a truck load of whisky through city streets and with having concealed and sold the liquor. The robbery occurred at 27th and Halsted streets on Sept. 14, 1921. "Ed" Stewart, alleged accomplice in the theft, was one of the three men on the truck. "Stewart, who is an ex-convict, was the chief witness for the prosecution.

Calls Four "Higher-Ups."

In concluding his argument, Attorney Weis said that in thousands of cases of infractions of the prohibition laws which had come into the federal courts the cry always had been: "Get the higher-ups."

"If these four chairs," he shouted, pointing to the defendants, "sit four of the higher-ups. The business in which they are engaged is not a political game and paid to uphold the law. We have all imagination. This time we have the higher-ups—not all of them, but some of them. Gentleman, your duty is clear."

TWO CONVICTED OF BLACKHAND GRAFT PLOTTING

Convicted of attempted extortion last night, Arriso Monaco and Dominic Laccario, face terms of ten to twenty years in the penitentiary.

The case is declared to be the first of its kind in Cook county at least for many years. Usually efforts to punish men accused of blackhand graft or extortion have ended in nothing because it was impossible to find witnesses who dared to testify.

The trial was directed by Assistant State's Attorney Michael Romano. The men were convicted of attempting to extort $5,000 from Giuseppe Albano, 1538 Edgewater avenue, several months ago.

It was threatened that his family would be killed unless he paid. Albano hid policemen in his house, inviting the "blackhanders" to come.

TWO AUTOS GOING SAMEWAYCRASH; 1 DEAD, 2 INJURED

Cook Co. Fatalities 15 for 9 Days of 1924.

One woman is dead and another woman and a man are said to be dying as a result of an odd crash of three motor vehicles going in the same direction in Ogden avenue, Berwyn.

Mrs. Anna Zatolouki, 22, wife of Joseph Zatolouki, proprietor of a Lyons, Ill., soft drink parlor, who drove one of the automobiles, is dead. Two companions, John Blahous, 3822 Maple avenue, Berwyn, and his wife, Mary, are in Berwyn Emergency hospital, both in injurious intervals.

Auto Wrecked by Truck.

Zatolouki attempted to pass a tour truck in front of him. A motor truck drove abreast of both cars. Zatolouki's car was sideswiped by the touring car and buried against the truck and wrecked.

The driver of the touring car sped away and is being sought by police. Zatolouki, O. Raymond, 354 Blue Is. and avenue, driver of the truck, and his helper, Frank Bavelidick, 253 West 26th street, all were charged with manslaughter. Zatolouki, however, a cobbler, called the crash an accident, exonerated them of blame and they were released.

One other death raised the year's Cook county motor death toll to a total of fifteen. Bernard Nalling, 23, colored, 3001 Wentworth avenue, died at the county hospital of injuries received Nov. 17 when he was struck by a van-like automobile. Police have failed to locate the driver.

Three Killed Near Hammond.

Three men were killed near Hammond, Ind., yesterday in automobile crashes. Arthur Karrer and James C. Williams, both of Elkhart, Ind., were killed and Miss Bertha Straus of the same village was severely injured when their automobile was struck by a New York Central train near Heaverville, Ind.

On our return from a visit to the grave of his wife in a Hammond cemetery Edward Anderson, 62, 1028 Avenue G, was hit by a vampire automobile. He was found dead on the roadside by passing motorists.

NEW WITNESSES FOUND IN PLARR SHOOTING CASE

Discovery of new witness to the shooting of Jennie Plarr, cabaret girl, by Policeman John P. Mulcahy was reported yesterday by Assistant District Attorney Edward Weis for the jurors to convict these "four higher-ups of the bootleg profession" and with a scathing denunciation of Capt. Michael Galler, former commanding officer at Deering station, now stationed in Burnside.

At the request of Assistant State's Attorneys Milton D. Smith and Harry Meneely and Chief Collins, Judge Schwab continued Mulcahy's preliminary hearing until Jan. 18, pending the outcome of a second coroner's inquest. Mulcahy's counsel protested against this continuance.

This is the third continuance granted by Judge Schwab and it caused Chief Collins to admit that his criticism of the judge's refusal to allow more than a day's continuance at the first hearing was based upon misinformation.

Capt. Smith declared one of the new witnesses was the man who picked up Mulcahy's revolver after the Plarr girl was shot and returned it to the police in a nearby restaurant.

Attorney Tyrell denied Mulcahy had been exonerated by a "fixed" coroner's jury or a verdict "framed" by former Deputy Coroner Michael Walsh.

PICTURES TRAP PAIR WHO BEAT, ROBBED CABMAN

Two youths arrested in Indianapolis on Tuesday were identified by photographs yesterday as the pair who beat Adolph E. Grish of 202 Hill street and left him unconscious on the highway between Chicago and Gary. In their possession were four .30-06 revolvers of Faber's Club. The company stock, ten shares of Circle Chemical company stock, two handkerchiefs gags, $1.00, and a revolver.

The youths gave their names as James Burns of 3027 West 40th place, and Harry Larson of St. Louis. On night of Jan. 3 they hired Grish, a taxi chauffeur, to drive them to Gary. On the return trip to Chicago they beat him and stole his car.

Burns and Larson were arrested after they telephoned an Indianapolis automobile agency for a demonstrator.

$25,000,000 IN NOTES IDENTIFIED AT SMALL TRIAL

State money notes aggregating $25,000,000 and signed by Gov. Len Small while he was treasurer of Illinois were identified yesterday by W. W. Sherman, assistant treasurer of Swift & Co., in civil proceedings instituted against the governor before Harry A. Riley, master in chancery. Evidence indicated that interest was paid to the Grant Park Trust and Savings company, the Curtis Trust company, or to E. C. Curtis personally. The transaction, it was testified, involved E. C. Curtis and Weston S. Curtis.

LAWYERS SCOUT CLAIMS OF "SON"
OF E. B. JENNINGS

Denial that Edwin E. Jennings, millionaire recluse, who died several months ago, had a son born to Miss Ida Miner out of wedlock, was given by attorneys for his estate yesterday when the "son," Charles E. Miner, 31, of Louisville, Ky., put forth his claim for the $8,000,000 estate.

Miner asserted that Jennings provided for him and for his mother until late in 1922, when Miner enlisted in the army and went to France, and that Jennings had always recognized him as his son.

Exhaustive investigation by Attorney Aristis Williams, counsel for the estate, revealed only nine cousins who, it was expected, would share the estate.

Convicted of attempted extortion last night, Arriso Monaco and Dominic Laccario, face terms of ten to twenty years in the penitentiary.

The case is declared to be the first of its kind in Cook county at least for many years. Usually efforts to punish men accused of blackhand graft or extortion have ended in nothing because it was impossible to find witnesses who dared to testify.

The trial was directed by Assistant State's Attorney Michael Romano. The men were convicted of attempting to extort $5,000 from Giuseppe Albano, 1538 Edgewater avenue, several months ago.

It was threatened that his family would be killed unless he paid. Albano hid policemen in his house, inviting the "blackhanders" to come.

TWO AUTOS GOING SAMEWAYCRASH; 1 DEAD, 2 INJURED

Cook Co. Fatalities 15 for 9 Days of 1924.

One woman is dead and another woman and a man are said to be dying as a result of an odd crash of three motor vehicles going in the same direction in Ogden avenue, Berwyn.

Mrs. Anna Zatolouki, 22, wife of Joseph Zatolouki, proprietor of a Lyons, Ill., soft drink parlor, who drove one of the automobiles, is dead. Two companions, John Blahous, 3822 Maple avenue, Berwyn, and his wife, Mary, are in Berwyn Emergency hospital, both in injurious intervals.

Auto Wrecked by Truck.

Zatolouki attempted to pass a tour truck in front of him. A motor truck drove abreast of both cars. Zatolouki's car was sideswiped by the touring car and buried against the truck and wrecked.

The driver of the touring car sped away and is being sought by police. Zatolouki, O. Raymond, 354 Blue Is. and avenue, driver of the truck, and his helper, Frank Bavelidick, 253 West 26th street, all were charged with manslaughter.

Zatolouki, however, calling the crash an accident, exonerated them of blame and they were released.

Three Killed Near Hammond.

Three men were killed near Hammond, Ind., yesterday in automobile crashes. Arthur Karrer and James C. Williams, both of Elkhart, Ind., were killed and Miss Bertha Straus of the same village was severely injured when their automobile was struck by a New York Central train near Heaverville, Ind.

On our return from a visit to the grave of his wife in a Hammond cemetery Edward Anderson, 62, 1028 Avenue G, was hit by a vampire automobile. He was found dead on the roadside by passing motorists.

POLITICIANS AND LABOR HEADS PAY KEARNEY HONOR

Many Notables Present at Big Funeral.

Political and labor leaders and many other friends paid final tribute yesterday to Thomas S. Kearney, former president of the Building Trades council. Probably 300 automobiles were in the cortège from his home, at 4538 South Michigan avenue, to St. Elizabeth's church, where the funeral services were held. Interment was in Mount Olivet cemetery.

"I might be expected to say that I knew him well," said Father John A. McCarthy in his sermon. "I did not, but I knew him. A close friend of Tom Kearney told me that he was ever loyal, never double crossed a friend, always stood by his principles, and was a man of stout heart. If more of the disputes between labor and capital were settled on principle, the results would be fairer; and the world needs more men of stout heart."

Politicians at Funeral.

Among the more prominent politicians present were Ald. Timothy Hogan, U. S. Schwartz, and John Powers, County Treasurer Patrick J. Carr, Dennis Egan, bailiff, and James J. Kearns, clerk of the Municipal court; former Ald. James McAnany, and James McDermott, and John Broderick.

PLEBISCITE IN GREECE RUSHED TO AID REFUGEES

Morgenthau Pleads for Early Vote.

BY RAYMOND FENDRICK.

[Chicago Tribune Foreign News Service.]
[Copyright 1924: By The Chicago Tribune.]
ATHENS, Jan. 9.—Hon. Henry Morgenthau, New York banker who was appointed by the league of nations as chairman of the Greek refugee settlement commission, asked M. Venizelos, president of the Greek assembly, to hold the plebiscite on the form of government Greece wants in March instead of April. He told M. Venizelos he was intervening in Greek politics only because of the urgency of the refugee situation. The Greek leader finally promised to set the plebiscite for the first week in March, although he favored a later date.

"The League cannot find any bank in America or anywhere else that will float a $50,000,000 loan for the Greek refugees until a plebiscite has been held and Greece gets a stable government," Mr. Morgenthau said. "If I must wait three months or more for return to America to look for money it may be summer or autumn before the league can help the refugees.

Promises Honest Plebiscite.

M. Venizelos also assured that he would try to obtain an honest and free plebiscite as the question of the regime of Greece must be based on the free will of the people in order to rest on a solid foundation. His declarations were particularly satisfactory to all interested in the refugee question.

Members of Mr. Morgenthau's commission have been in Athens for two months without being able to accomplish anything owing to the failure of the league of nations to find a bank to float a loan under its auspices for the Greek refugees who are dying like flies.

Unable to Get Credits.

On account of his illness, M. Venizelos has not been able to get in active touch with the American, British and French governments regarding credits for the refugees. Although he has promised to cooperate with the Morgenthau commission, he has largely given up hope of getting aid through the league. His enemies are using his illness to spread reports that he has lost his vigor and prestige.

His friend, M. Venizelos, is handling the situation very cleverly. As foreign minister in the new Russian cabinet he will dominate the government and influence the plebiscite any way he wishes. He now states that a simple majority will be sufficient to abolish the Glucksburg dynasty.

Italy Ignores Greek King.

[Chicago Tribune Foreign News Service.]
ROME, Jan. 9.—King George and Queen Elizabeth of Greece arrived in Rome today and remained for three hours. Although they still are the legally reigning sovereigns of Greece they were not greeted by any officials. The royal exiles were on their way to Naples to attend the memorial service for the late King Constantine. King George got out of his first class carriage when the train pulled in. Accompanied by his wife and lady in waiting, the king made a "rubberneck" tour of the capital in a Ford taxicab. They saw the outside of both the Quirinal and Vatican before they returned to their train at 5:40.

DUBLIN, Jan. 9.—Agriculture in Ireland presents a peculiar problem.

Corn will not mature because of the climate. The small amount of wheat grown is too soft to produce the quality of bread desired, so 90 per cent of Irish bread is made of foreign grain.

Ninety-three per cent of the Irish agricultural exports are meat and dairy products for the English market. Most of the meat is shipped on the hoof. Grazing is the island's greatest industry. The ever green pastures have resisted efforts to increase the acreage under the plow during the last eighty years and the Isle has become gradually more emerald.

In 1851 there were 50,000 more farms in Ireland than in 1924. Between these years, 350,000 improved holdings were created under the land purchase act, and this with 50,000 others have been absorbed by consolidation. Most of the tillage is done on farms of less than fifteen acres.

Seeks to Improve Products.

The department of agriculture has planned to develop most of its present and future methods to improving products and methods of production. It estimates that $2,000,000 ($3,500,000) could be added annually to prices by grading Irish eggs and butter. H. H. Beaman of Cork told the Irish Dairy and Shorthorn Breeders' association:

"We are endowed with a climate proximity to a great market, and with the power of acquiring dairy trade against most comers. Prices for our butter are distinctly lower than others, but when we examine the means for success which other countries have adopted there is not much cause for surprise."

Urges Cooperative Marketing.

Thirty-six thousand dairy cows on a test yielded 420 gallons of milk annually, much less than the yield in the United States. The government expects to deepen the interest in breeding and further to encourage cooperative marketing.

Declarer that ex-service men throughout the country are in favor of a federal bonus.

Members of the American Legion in Cook county went ahead enthusiastically yesterday preparing for the mass meeting to be held next Sunday afternoon at the Garrick theater.

Howard Savage, commander of the county organization, prophesied a jam of veterans that would pack the theater.

Hopes to Impress Public.

"We hope they'll overflow outside so that the passerby can see them and see that they're in earnest," he declared. "And if they do have to stand in the street the speakers will come outside and talk to them there."

On the bill as speakers are Howard MacVicker, former national commander of the Legion, and Senator Medill McCormick. It is also expected that National Commander John R. Quinn will be present and will speak.

A resolution, expressing the sentiment of the meeting in its demand for adjusted compensation through the bill now before congress, will be adopted as the final feature of the rally.

As part of its campaign for the bonus, the legion is staging one of the most intense drives in its history to enlist new members.

While the legionnaires called for the bonus, the first shot of opposition was fired by the Ex-Service Men's Anti-Bonus League, meeting at the Hotel La Salle yesterday.

Attack Proposed Bonus.

Charging that the American Legion had refused to poll the veterans on their views and reasuring the league's slogan of "Everything for the Disabled," nothing for the Able bodied," Captain K. K. Dunn, president of New York's league's national president, called the bonus "essentially wrong in principle and insidiously destructive of the basic ideals and conceptions of democratic government."

EXPECT MCFAUL ACQUITTAL OF MURDER CHARGE

Defense Declines Even to Offer Testimony.

BY PHILIP KINSLEY.

"They're acquittin' Dan McFall in the mornin'."

With this happy song in his heart, DuPage County Sheriff "Danny" McFall, on trial for the murder of Jerry O'Connor Sept. 7 last in a saloon at 54th street and Lincoln street went to his innocent cot last night.

No complaint of the "law's delay" will lodge in this case. With astonishing celerity the case moved toward its climax, final arguments, and a verdict this morning.

The attorneys for the defense, W. W. O'Brien and William Scott Stewart, thought as little of the state's evidence that they offered no evidence for the defendant and even suggested that arguments be waived. But Thomas Peden and W. A. Rittenhouse would not agree to this and the talk went on.

Mother Laugesen at McFall.

The stenographers worked swiftly. The regular lay on the table between them; possible was the weapon of O'Connor's quiet death. That was the case—the man was dead. And there was his mother in the crowd by the door. An amiable, rheumatic old lady with quivering lips. The dead boy might have been a beer runner and a police character, but not to her inner vision.

During an intermission, as every one stared for the door, Mrs. O'Connor edged near to the defendant, dapper, gum chewing Danny, and those near reported that she made a lung at him.

"You've got the wrong fellow, ma'am—I didn't do it," said McFall.

The defense of McFall's entirely exculpatory. Walter O'Donnell was not called to the stand by the state. The police say that he and others who were in the saloon that night changed their testimony. At the bottom of it all, the state claims, was the O'Donnell-Stevens beer war.

The state's chief testimony was what the police had to say concerning their examination of McFall the day after the shooting.

Assistant State's Attorney Rittenhouse advanced this argument to the jury:

"Whether it was McFall or whether it was one of his friends who shot O'Connor, it makes no difference. They were both together. McFall denies that he did the shooting, but he does not say who did."

Deny Case Has Been Made.

This, according to Attorney O'Brien, is the real reason for McFall's indictment and trial—that he would not tell, or could not. It is the defense claim that McFall had no friends with him when he entered the saloon, that he entered the "Hon's den" alone.

The case has cleared very little of the beer war intrigues or of official involvement.

"Take all the state's evidence as true and you have no case against McFall," McFall said. "You can't get a man to render a verdict on suspicion. If McFall is guilty of not telling what he knows, then the police are guilty and the state's attorney is guilty."

McFall's revolver is a .38 caliber and the bullet that killed O'Connor was a .32, it was stated at the trial.

NEW OFFER FOR MUSCLE SHOALS MADE UNCLE SAM

Washington, D. C., Jan. 9.—[By the Associated Press.]—An entirely new offer to the government for the electric power to be developed at Muscle Shoals tendered today by nine of the principal associated power companies of the southern states, assures a reopening of the much-controvered subject before Congress. At the same time it assures a reexamination of the pending offer by Henry Ford.

Briefly, the new offer proposes to pay the government $100,000,000 in rental over a period of fifty years, and still leave the government in possession of the property.

It contemplates taking only the hydroelectric energy to be developed by the Wilson Dam in 1928 and leaving the nuclear plants free to the government for production of munitions in war.

In time of peace, the offer proposes to reserve for production of fertilizer a portion of the power of the dam.

Representative Hull [Rep., Iowa] announced he would introduce a resolution calling for hearings and looking to the enactment of laws under which the Muscle Shoals property could be leased.

FILE "L" MERGER AGREEMENT BY THREE OF LINES

Washington, D. C., Jan. 9.—[By the Associated Press.]—An entirely new offer to the government for the electric power to be developed at Muscle Shoals tendered today by nine of the principal associated power companies of the southern states, assures a reopening of the much-controvered subject before Congress. At the same time it assures a reexamination of the pending offer by Henry Ford.

Briefly, the new offer proposes to pay the government $100,000,000 in rental over a period of fifty years, and still leave the government in possession of the property.

It contemplates taking only the hydroelectric energy to be developed by the Wilson Dam in 1928 and leaving the nuclear plants free to the government for production of munitions in war.

In time of peace, the offer proposes to reserve for production of fertilizer a portion of the power of the dam.

Representative Hull [Rep., Iowa] announced he would introduce a resolution calling for hearings and looking to the enactment of laws under which the Muscle Shoals property could be leased.

Capital Stock to Be $21,000,000.

The outstanding capital stock of the three roads has a par value as follows: Northwestern, $9,390,000; Metropolitan, $16,170,300; South Side, $10,231,400. Outstanding indebtedness amounting to the following will also be taken over by the consolidators: 5 per cent notes of the Northwestern, dated Jan. 2, 1915, $390,000; electrical energy bills of the Northwestern, $544,652; same of the Metropolitan, $16,055,959; same of the South Side, $426,173.

Capital stock of the consolidation shall be, by terms of the agreement, $21,000,000. All outstanding capital stock of the three roads is to be surrendered by the holders, canceled and exchanged for stock in the consolidated company.

Reduction of the capital stock through the agreement is made to bring this in line with the rate making valuation. No mention is made in the agreement of the underlying mortgage bonds, which it is said, will go to holders of the old underlying securities.

Empowered to Issue Bonds.

The directors are empowered to issue as soon as practicable the following: Adjustment debenture bonds to a total of $18,563,000; certificates representing $17,729,500 of capital stock (par value) of the consolidated company, and refunding bonds, to be known as "series A," for an amount not to exceed

LAW DEAN DENIES U. OF M. HUSHED SCHOOL SCANDAL

Ann Arbor, Mich., Jan. 9.—Henry M. Bates, dean of the law school, denied yesterday that any effort was made by University of Michigan authorities to "hush up" the dismissal of two law students.

The two students and another student in another department and a girl were suspended on charges of immoral conduct after the girl underwent a criminal operation in Detroit.

"The implication that the deans' plan was made to 'hush up' the matter is false," Dean Bates said. "The story was one that could have no interest except for the prurient-minded, and publicity was withheld in the interest of decency and of innocent persons related to the principals."

"The two law students were compelled to withdraw for conduct unbecoming students. The facts were not fully disclosed to university authorities until two or three days before the holiday recess began."

Howard Donohue, senior literary student at Michigan and until recently managing editor of the Michigan Daily, the university paper, said that after the girl left his home, that he had only connection with the case involving the two students and a co-ed was as a witness. Donohue's retirement as managing editor of the Michigan Daily was announced recently in a published statement that gave illness as the reason for his resignation.

BULLETIN.

At 12:20 a. m. the teams of Egg and Grenda and Madden and Decker lapped the field in a jam which was started by Egg. As a result of this performance Egg and Grenda are now leading the field one lap, while Madden and Decker go up into the third division. There are now five divisions in the race.

BY WALTER ECKERSALL.

Three teams lost a lap, another picked up a lap which was not allowed, and almost continuous jamming featured the six day bicycle race at the Coliseum last night. At midnight the combination of McNamara and Van Kempen led the event with 282 points. Coburn and Beckman were second with 186, and Egg and Grenda third with 126.

The jam, which resulted in the laps of three teams, happened right after Kaiser and Taylor had picked up a lap on the field. Referee Frank Kramer refused to allow the lap because Lands and Taylor, who led the field, refused to give chase. The referee, asked each rider $25 and then Lands threatened to quit the race. He went to the training quarters, but later came back.

Fans Boo Kramer.

According to rules of six day bike racing, when a rider jumps the field that is in order must give chase for at least half a lap. Neither Lands nor Thomas did this, so it was a result Taylor and Kaiser gained the result without apparent opposition. When the announcement was made that the lap was not allowed the referee's decision was booted and he was unable to make further announcements of interest to the fans.

Following the jam in which Kaiser and Taylor gained their lap, Sammy Gasmann started another and was closely followed by Decker. After Gasmann went high on the turn Decker kept on going. Coburn, Kockler and Beckman then took the field around the track at a dizzy pace, with the result three teams were shaken off.

Start Bassie Party.

When the wild riding quieted down Referee Frank Kramer announced combinations of Grimes and Beckman, Cossolino and Mobeck and De Wolfe and Stocklynch had lost a lap. As a result the Belgian combination was relegated from the first to the second division, while Grimes and Hambacher went into the third section. Cossolino and Mobeck were two laps back of the leaders and in last place.

The jamming started just before 8 o'clock and continued through the sprint and up until the time the three teams were lapped just before 11 o'clock. At 8 o'clock Cossolino started a jam which was stopped by Freddie Hill's fall, resulting from a blown tire. Kockler then started, but stopped when Grenda fell. From then until the sprint started at 9:30 o'clock there were several attempts made to get away, but the field was always alert.

Three Jams in Succession.

Grimes started the jamming in the third sprint, and Lands let go in the sixth. Egg then took up the jamming just before the start of the seventh dash, and with his partner, Grenda, carried it into the seventh sprint. The pair gained a good half lap when Egg weakened and the field caught them. From this point until the three teams were lapped efforts were made by several riders to get away, but the field caught them.

The riders passed the half way mark at 10 o'clock last night, and from now on most anything may happen. They appear in good condition, and jamming will be started at any time, as it is almost a foregone conclusion that Van Kempen and McNamara will win the race if they go into the final hour of sprinting on Saturday night or even terms in mileage with the leaders.

Here Are Sprint Results.

Following are the results of last night's sprints:

First sprint—Won by Madden; Hanley, second; Stocklynch, third; Cossolino, fourth. Second sprint—Won by Van Kempen. O'Farrell, second; Beckman, third; Hanley, fourth. Third sprint—Won by McNamara; Hanley, third; Egg, third; Madden, fourth.

Fourth sprint—Won by Grimes; Hill, second; Bassie, third; Kockler, fourth.

Fifth sprint—Won by Stocklynch; Beckman, second; Grimes, third; McNamara, fourth. Sixth sprint—Won by Decker; Hill, second; Van Kempen, third; Lands, fourth. Seventh sprint—Won by Egg; McNamara, second; Beckman, third; Grimes, fourth. Eighth sprint—Won by Van Kempen; Lands, second; Coburn, third; Lawrence, fourth. Ninth sprint—Won by Grimes; Hill, second; Beckman, third; Gasmann, fourth. Tenth sprint—Won by Decker; Lands, second; Hill, third; Coburn, fourth.

Landis Denies McInnis Claim for $10,000 from Red Sox

BY IRVING VAUGHAN.

John "Stuffy" McInnis, former Athletic, Red Sox, and Cleveland first baseman, now on the roster of the Braves, will not be made a present of $10,000.

Based upon an agreement which he signed, he moved him from the Boston American to the Cleveland Indians, the player recently filed a claim with Commissioner Landis against the Red Sox for the above amount. The commissioner yesterday denied the claim.

In the early months of 1922 Boston and Cleveland negotiated for McInnis to the latter club, but McInnis held out. He insisted he would not play away from home.

Official Harry Frassee, then the Red Sox owner, gave McInnis a new contract, raising his salary by $2,000 per annum to $14,000. The contract covered 1922, 1923, and 1924, and satisfied the player.

The Boston club agreed to reimburse Cleveland to the extent of $5,000 a year on the contract.

McInnis Licks Papers.

After McInnis had finished the 1922 season with Cleveland, his salary being $14,000, he was given his unconditional release, whereupon he signed with Harry Frassee, then the Red Sox owner. After his visit in Washington, he said that he should be paid $15,000 for going to Cleveland, and that he accommodated the Boston club he had.

The American league already has appropriated $100,000 for the structure and the site has been selected by the art committee of Washington. The monument will be dedicated to the national hero. After his visit in Washington, he said that he should be paid $15,000 for going to Cleveland, and that he accommodated the Boston club he had.

The farm woman's best helper - Caroline B. King

THE COUNTRY GENTLEMAN has now an added feature, "The Countrywoman," which will be a part of every issue. It has secured as its new women's editor one whom we find to be the best authority in America on home-making subjects, Mrs. Caroline B. King.

Mrs. King has had a wide experience. She was left to run an Idaho farm and rear her two children, and from the experience thus acquired she has been able to help in solving the problems of millions of other farm women. In recent years her services have been in great demand both as lecturer and writer. Through her personal talks and her writings in publications of wide circulation, she is known to millions of the home-makers of America.

Mrs. King has been a regular contributor to THE COUNTRY GENTLEMAN, and now becomes its "women's editor." Her department, a feature of every issue, will not be edited from a desk, with scissors. To her work she brings her broad experience and appreciation of the farm home—and right out into these homes she will go in person to get ever fresh contacts and new viewpoints.

To the 850,000 farm homes which pay $1 a year or five cents every week for THE COUNTRY GENTLEMAN this page by Mrs. King will bring an added value and even greater interest. To the advertiser who realizes the new state of affairs in the thinking farm homes of America this additional value in THE COUNTRY GENTLEMAN will be obvious.

The Fourth Norwood

By ROBERT E. PINKERTON.

SYNOPSIS.
Young Rod Norwood, while setting a mink trap on the banks of the Drowning river near his home at Lake Drowning in the Hudson Bay territory, sees Aaron Cron, a rival trader to his father, coming into the district. Cron is known as The Spider, not only because of the terror he has inspired in most of the inhabitants, but also because of his vicious condition. Rod is frightened at the sight, and, after the Spider has disappeared, hurries eagerly toward home.

He breaks the news of The Spider's advent to his little sister, Beth. Their father, Tom Norwood, tries to dispel the child's fear of the cripole. He explains to Rod that Cron had been his boy years before on an expedition into the wilderness to buy fur. When his legs became too weak to support him, he was compelled to abandon them.

For three generations his family has lived in Norwood. Tom's grandfather, Hector Norwood, accompanied MacKenzie on his remarkable expedition to the Arctic sea. His son, Tom, a successful trader, with Cron became the most powerful man in the Hudson Bay territory once before when young Rod was 6. But in the struggle between them Tom was beaten, and the Spider disappeared. Now, with his back, Tom is gripped by the desire for revenge. He has a talk with Aaron Cron, but the latter is not amiable, and declares he is back to beat Tom at his own game.

Tom is attending school for six years in New York. Rod tells his father he would like to live the life of a trapper, to be a mink hunter. Tom is bitterly disappointed at Rod's decision, as he has just posted a new post for his son.

INSTALLMENT X.

ROD GOES TO NEW YORK.

"When did you start? Last year?" Rod asked his father.

"Yes, right after The Spider was here."

"Here!" Rod exclaimed. "Again! You never wrote—"

"Nothing to write about. He tried it again. Third time. Lasted a little longer but he finally went. I think that will finish him, now that we're jacking him on his home grounds. He ought to know by this time he can't lick a Norwood."

Rod was silent. Even at college the vision of what had happened in that lonely wigwam had seized his thoughts again and again. It had become an angular symbol of the sinister, ruthless, indomitable spirit of Aaron Cron, a horrid thing that always gripped his imagination. And now this man had tried a third time to wreck the Norwood fortunes. Rod, remembering the will that had ruled in the grisly drama in the old squaw's camp, did not believe he would ever cease his attacks.

"The damned old fool," Tom said. "Gave me a good tussle this time but he didn't get much fur. Stubborn idiot, Aaron is. But come over to the store. I want a hand with that fur. And," he stopped and looked back with a grimace, "be careful how you do it. I'd be much safer here. It's those pants that'll be taking you to New York."

That was the last reference Tom made to the subject. Once Rod had responded it with an embarrassed attempt to express his appreciation. His father stopped him by gripping his shoulder and leading him to a window. Silently he pointed to the low, rocky ridge back of the post, to the crest where his wife had been buried ten years before.

Rod plunged into the summer activities with an energy and enthusiasm that, while they pleased his father, also caused him pain. It was what the fur trader had always wished and this, he knew, would be the last time his son would work at his side. Rod was given charge of the brigade, operating the small fleet of freight canoes in which the fur was taken to the railroad and in which the winter supplies were brought back. When this was finished there were a number of things about the post to be done, after which he went to his father.

"How about the books?" he asked. "Can't I get them straightened out for you?"

"Straightened out!" Tom repeated after a quick glance.

"I remember how you always growled about the bookkeeping."

"Oh, I got you all cleared up at last. Got 'em shape while you were taking out the fur. Balanced them down to $65, which is the best I can do."

And he laughed. "No, we're about cleaned up now. Ready for fall. When do you want to go?"

"I'd like to get away the end of next week."

"All right. Beth will be ready then. She's talking a little of staying this winter."

"Staying here! Why, she ought not."

"Of course she oughtn't. She's got to go. Beth is—well, she's like her mother. She stuck it out because she thought she ought to, and that you kids. That's one reason why I want Beth to go back to school. I never knew exactly what she was like, but I know she's a good girl."

Beth—Beth's daughter and I'm not going to have her suffer, too. Beth's like her. She'll want the outside and all she can get there and can't get here."

That last week was one of outward gaiety in which all three strove to conceal the quick wrenches of the pain to come. The northern wilderness is measureless, empty expanse, and its sheer loneliness drives the few who dare it to closer bonds. Now in the Norwood post the three people facing a separation which promised to stretch through the years were greedy for every moment of companionship. Tom was as jovial as in the days when The Spider had laid siege at his door. Rod, knowing what lay behind the bluff heartiness, was constantly in his father's company. Beth, responding to Tom's lead, was gay of the three, and the last night she broke down.

It was Tom himself who finally persuaded her, scoffing at her incomprehensible overruling her objections, insisting that the plans already made be carried out. And the next morning when brother and sister, seated together in a canoe manned by two Indians, departed for the railroad, the fur trader stood on the dock and shouted his exaggerated woodman's warnings of the dangers of a great city. They still heard his laugh when they turned the point on which Aaron Cron had built his post so many years before and Rod, glancing back, was forced to include in his last glimpse those two squat, ugly logs.

Both were weeping.

"We shouldn't leave him!" she sobbed. "We shouldn't."

Rod did not weep. He was staring at the twin trading establishments, so symbolic of the everlasting struggle for fur land. He wondered if The Spider would come again, driven by his determination to crush the Norwoods, and even while he experienced a great relief that he would never have to take up the battle he was conscious of a twinge of self-reproach.

He had chosen Columbia for his post-graduate work, largely because it would take him to the metropolis and the literary atmosphere he expected to find there, and also because it had been suggested by Jerome Carstens, an English instructor at college, the leader of the group which had planned a magazine of constructive criticism, the first step taken to train young American letters. Carstens had abandoned his studies in the French restaurants he frequented. There was something in the man's personality. With a pint of red wine inside him he talked marvelously from the viewpoint of the immature minds that clustered about him in those changing days of the middle classes. His influence over Rod became complete that first winter. To the young Canadian he seemed a courageous, brilliant apostle of truth and the new order.

After his year of postgraduate work Rod moved into quarters with Carstens, and began what he felt was to be his career. The magazine was still a thing of the future. Publishers had combined to discourage it. Carstens declared, and Rod was happy, nevertheless. He sat up all night to talk and listen, he frequently drank too much, and he developed the habit, cultivated by Carstens' subtle methods of paying most of the checks and frequently all of the bills. The fall and most of the winter passed in this manner with nothing written.

"Live first, my boy," his mentor declared whenever Rod made a new resolution that he would settle down to real creative effort. "Literature can only be a picture of life. If you know nothing of life, how can you paint it?"

"But I'm wasting time."

"Time! I'm fifteen years older than you, I have yet to write a word of anything except criticism, and I have never wasted a moment," he said, and he tapped his forehead. "Here is a storehouse to which every moment has added its mite, a storehouse which some day will burst, spill out its seasoned riches. There will be none of the cheap sentimentalities of youth, none of the madcap gropings which mark this closing decade of the nineteenth century. When I begin to write, my boy, a new world will dawn."

He said it whimsically, with exaggerated pomposity, with his lean fingers extended and tapping against each other, but at the end he suddenly shook a fist at Rod.

"Write!" he shouted. "Bah! You have nothing but form. I mean it when I say wait. You can. Your father will support you. Don't sharpen a pencil for ten years."

Greatly as he respected Carstens' advice, Rod rebelled several times that winter. He sharpened his pencil. There was one period of three weeks when he worked ceaselessly. Carstens read the result and then calmly tore the manuscript into bits.

"Some day you will thank me for this," he said as he tossed the pieces into the fire.

It was inevitable that when spring came Rod should try again. There was another feverish outburst, a period of remorseless application that ended abruptly when a telegram arrived. It read:

"Your father killed by falling tree week ago. ANDY DANE."

By Mae Tinne.

Good Morning!

WHAT shall I say about this picture? Honestly, with Priscilla Dean and Wallace Beery in production, I think there'd be plenty to write about, but I give you my word, "The White Tiger" has me bluffed. I don't know whether to class it with the worst crook pictures ever produced or to line it up with the Better Movies movement. Possibly one might be cryptic and say it is an ardent member of both.

The director of the story, who is also the director of the play, just went and got himself all excited about the workings of crook minds. He endeavors to show how those who live by their wits feel toward each other, themselves and the world at large, and in one person's opinion he started something he hadn't the remotest idea how to finish.

The story ends Polynesian. It concerns one of the points most in contention of the story.

Manifestly it (subscribing to the affirmation) does not require assent to the very words of the confession, or to the concurrent action of the two story-tellers.

Concerning one of the points most in contention the affirmation says:

"Manifestly it (subscribing to the affirmation) does not require

assent to the very words of the confession, or to the concurrent action of the two story-tellers.

To quote from the book, "Nowhere Else in the World," said Dr. Stone,

"New York is too provincial, Washington too patrician, Boston too topy,

Philadelphia too placid, and San Francisco too far away. Chicago is the speed maniac of the world. To stand still here is to be trampled on."

"The reason I came to Chicago

after years ago was as pastor to the Episcopal Church."

Dr. Stone said to me, "If you stay in Baltimore you will develop into an intelligent, contented, fat person, but if you go to Chicago you will get into an unfinished city where you will find every incentive to work and achieve."

CLOSEUPS

George Randolph Chester's "Red Rose" has been adapted to the screen by Vitagraph.

A delegation of Los Angeles postal workers, headed by the assistant superintendent of mails, presented Ralph Lewis recently with an oil painting of himself in acknowledgment of his work in "The Mail Man."

Christy Mathewson, known to all followers of baseball and former member of the world war veterans' tuberculosis colony at Saranac, plans to stage a benefit performance for disabled veterans at the Pontiac theater of Saranac. This will be an all movie show, supplied through the kindness of Carl Laemmle of "Universal" Youth, the coming Reginald Denny picture, will be its feature.

The affirmation continues, "There is no action in the scriptures that our writers have kept from error, and that the general assembly spoke without warrant of the scriptures or of the confession of faith when it said, 'The holy spirit did so inspire guide, and move the writers of the holy scripture as to keep them from error.'

The first empire will be the key-note of 1924 spring and summer style, a fashion creator of the Rue de la Paix said. "Our clients are tired of the low waistlines and belts and they demand something different, so we are going to the other extreme."

"Skirts will be short enough to reveal the ankles and there will be no trains on ballroom gowns."

The affirmation continues, "There is no action in the scriptures that our writers have kept from error, and that the general assembly spoke without warrant of the scriptures or of the confession of faith when it said, 'The holy spirit did so inspire guide, and move the writers of the holy scripture as to keep them from error.'

CORN TOUCHES SEASON'S HIGH IN WIDE TRADE

BY CHARLES MICHAELS.

Corn finished at the highest prices of the season, with all deliveries in new ground. Speculative interest, both local and outside, increased, and the market was a big broad affair, with heavy profit taking sales readily absorbed. The finish was firm, with net gains of $1.10, with May at 75¢ and July at 78¢. Wheat closed unchanged to 34¢ higher and oats and rye 4¢ higher.

At no time were corn prices lower than the peak of the previous day. Buying was a more persistent character with limited country offerings of cash grain to arrive a factor. The bulge, however, brought in more offerings, and probably around 200,000 bu cash grain were bought in the interval by the leading markets, with most obtainable at slightly better prices.

Longs Sell May Wheat.

Houses with eastern connections seemed to have May wheat for sale at 31.5¢, which more than offset the strength of corn, and all the grain offered at the figure was taken. Larger selling orders were apparently received to 69¢. On the minor breaks there was buying in small lots credited to cash houses. The latter class of buying has been in progress for several days, and presumably reflects takings of grain from store by mills. At the finish May was $1.05 @ 1.05¢, and July at 1.05¢.

There was little buying of both May and July to close spreads with Winnipeg. The market remained practically unchanged. Local wheat changed to 16¢ lower at the last, although owing to an upturn in exchange the latter actually gained 4¢/4¢ per bu. Export business was fair, with sales of 40,000 bu. The trade is commencing to anticipate a fairly liberal reduction in the domestic visible supply to be shown in May's statement.

May Oats Up.

A leading elevator house, which has been active in selling May at 46¢ on every bulge of late, was the leading seller again yesterday, and there was not sufficient outside buying to absorb all the offerings. St. Louis' outbid Chicago for cash oats within 100 miles of the latter market in Illinois Tuesday night, and all reports from the interior show heavy farm consumption.

Shorts Buy Lard.

Fairly liberal short covering was on in January, and early in the month the best sellers, which were unchanged to 7¢ higher. Ribs were unchanged to 1¢ higher and bellies unchanged. Part of the buying of lard was credited to eastern cotton oil interests. Prices follow:

PLANS $400,000
60 FLAT BUILDING
ON ELMDALE AVE.

BY AL CHASE.

As W. Anderson has bought the 1500 vacant at the southeast corner of Elmdale and Greenwood avenues for $20,000, and intends erecting a sixty flat building in the spring at an estimated cost of $400,000. He has not yet engaged an architect. He secured the site from Henry P. and Peter P. Kraus and Mary A. Schrup. Theodore Johnson was attorney.

Mr. Anderson had the six stores and sixteen flats at the southwest corner of Woodward and 47th Street, sold to E. Hirsch for a reported $125,000, subject to $55,000. S. A. Bernhard & Co. and M. J. Wagner & Co. were brokers. Gottschwartz & Markham and Kaplan & Kaplan were attorneys.

August H. Miller has purchased from Harry W. Handier and Hyman A. Jacobs the twenty-four flats at 7623 Marshall for an indicated $125,000, subject to $40,000.

United Cigar Lease.

The University of Chicago has leased the two story building at the northwest corner of Van Buren and Sherman 101x14, to the United Cigar Stores company, for fifteen years from May 1, 1924 at an annual rent of $10,000, for the first five years of $8,000; for the next five, $14,000, and $16,000 annually for the last five. This is diagonally across from the La Salle station. The lessee presumably will use the corner store, now occupied by a drug store, and sublease the balance.

Charles B. Scoville, vice president of the Central Trust company of Illinois, has bought the southeast corner of Jackson and Throop, from Ed. V. Price & Co. for an indicated $120,000. The 260x150 lot is improved with ten houses which were to be considered. Hart & Watson are brokers.

Nick Pizzis has bought the four-story, four stories, and three offices, at the southwest corner of Belmont and Broadway, from Isidor Bulow, for a reported $125,000, subject to $40,000, through the Coffman Realty company.

Buys Evanson Shop.

The seven stores at the northwest corner of Sherman and Main, in Evanston, known as "the Evanson Shop," were sold by Mrs. Anna B. Phelps to Phillip D. Hoffman for a reported $40,000. The lot is 75x118. Baird & Warner were brokers.

The fifteen apartments at the southwest corner of Douglas and Clifton Park avens were sold to Max Rosenberg, Abraham Goldberg, and Emanuel Cohen for a reported $125,000, subject to $40,000. Katz, Socolow & Co. were brokers and Edward Berkson, Samuel Rosenthal, and Blankstein & Freeman were attorneys.
